OFFICIAL SELECTIONS & AWARDS

WORLD PREMIERE

Director statement

The events taking place in the era we live in do not stem from choices made in parallel universes or an unreal world, but are the outcome of choices made by us. We each play our part, and are responsible for the current state we live in.

“Unparallel World” is an emotionally charged and socially conscious drama. Many children in Iran are forced to work in hazardous conditions. They are deprived of education, fall prey to addiction, become victims of sexual abuse and since neither the government nor any organization take measures to support these children, no bright future awaits them. The incidents portrayed in this film are not fictitious or related to a parallel universe. Such events happen daily for some children in this very world that we live in, and we just choose to overlook them...

“Unparallel World” stands as the short film with the highest number of actors ever featured in the history of Iranian cinema, underscoring its unique and profound impact.

Mohamad Yaraghi, director

Mohamad Yaraghi, born on July 18, 1998, in Tehran, Iran, is a versatile figure in the world of cinema and theater, excelling as a writer, director, and actor. His journey in the film industry commenced with the creation and direction of the short film ‘They Won’t Remember You’ in 2019. This impactful work not only gained recognition in international festivals but also clinched four prestigious international awards, including the Best Short Film accolade at the London Short Film Festival.
